Recent Operations

By Paul Rardin

Tallahassee, April 14.—Here comes the second episode and whether or not it will be more informative than the last one I cannot say. You be the judge. There is one thing that I put out as the time wears on—new members work harder than old ones in the Legislative halls on Capitol Hill. For a few minutes yesterday I took time out and watched the "goings on" in the House Chamber. Every new member was in high gear and on the other hand they have been in there a while and seemed to be taking it a bit easier.

I don't know whether I told you what committees Mr. Morrow and I are on. But here they are, and Mr. Morrow is serving on the following committees: Resolutions, Public Lands, Aviation, Labor, Judiciary "B", Motor Vehicles and Carriers, Education "A", Elections, Plan and Census, Mines and Canals and Drainage, Agriculture, Education "B", State Penitentiary, War Officials, Industries, State Publicity, Conservation and Public Printing of which I am chairman. I consider myself lucky as a freshman in this institution to land the chairmanship of a committee.

I have had occasion to meet Fred Hazen of Bradford county. Fred is a brother of Dr. O. F. Hazen and one of the friends I know you ever met. We may differ a little as to the session on overland bills but I'll consider him a friend when the session is over. Then there's O. Lamar Crocker, lawyer of Tallahassee, who is a cousin of County Commissioner Doyle Crocker of the Everglades. Lamar is a real piece of chap and has a lot of friends up here.

"Uncle Joe" Peoples of Glades county is fast renewing his acquaintance among the boys here. Joe was not here for the session but it seems that a lot of the new fellows know him nevertheless.

Work alikes in the House are: W. C. (Bill) Platt of Collier county and H. C. Turner of St. Augustine. Turner is another newspaper man and naturally I get along exceptionally well with him. Platt is very much interested in many of the same things which interest me and we also click it off pretty well.

I know that every legislator is doing his best to get set and under the very best of service that he can to the folks back home. Letters and telegrams come in unceasing numbers and he keeps a fellow on the hop to attend to committee meetings and attend to the many things that must be taken care of. So, in case you drop me a line and I seem a little slow in answering, please be patient that I'm doing the best that one man can under circumstances.

And the Pages. If I didn't mention them I'd feel that I'd left out a deserving lot. We have eight in the house and they are on a hop skip and jump from morning until night. The eight of them form a brilliant bunch of youngsters and just about as good as any boys you've ever seen.

Another hard working outfit is the press group. Those boys can take it. There is one in the house who reads the bill introduced in the House. He must have a trigger mind. Anyway, the boys escape their attention.

I think I remarked some weeks ago in this column that I couldn't smoke cigars. I am fast learning the way it's done. The delegation from Hillsborough county seems to have an endless supply

SUGAR SEASON ENDS IN GLADES WITH BARBECUE

Ideal Weather Makes For Most Successful Season

Producing a record volume of Everglades raw sugar, the United States Sugar Corporation brought its 1936-37 grinding season to a close this week with barbecue and field day contests in the Canal Point division Wednesday and with a barbecue and dance at the sugar house at Clewiston Thursday evening.

Surpassing all previous production in six years' operations, more than nine-fifty million pounds of sugar was sent to Savannah for refining during the current season, 295,170 tons of sugar, each weighing 325 pounds being shipped as compared to 268,000 bags last season. Tons of cane ground was 529,125 tons as compared to 451,000 tons last year.

As a by-product more than 3,000,000 gallons of molasses were shipped in railway tank cars from the Clewiston mill which ceased grinding Tuesday morning after four and a half months continuous operation.

Governmental restrictions on local production of sugar cane, the result of a Florida representative's efforts to obtain legislation to allow expansion of the industry in the Lake Okechobee region, prevented persons employed by the company from plantations stretch from Canal Point to the eastern shore of the lake, to Moore Haven and other western shore. Millions of dollars have been spent in erecting water control canals which are essential to the sugar house and other details of sugar production.

More than 2,000 persons attended the festival staged by the company at the Clewiston sugar house last night and took part in the barbecue and dance which culminated the closing of the successful harvest. The ground floor of the sugar house was cleared for the occasion, and temporary counters and tables were arranged on one side for the serving of the barbecue dinner. Approximately 1,000 plates were served with barbecued pork, beef and other food. A large band, including the Hi-Hatters, 8-piece dance orchestra from the East Coast, provided music for dancing until a late hour.

Chief Tag Inspector Visits Glades Area To Check Licenses

Investigating reports that recent flooding rains might prevent local residents from obtaining already bought auto license tags, chief tag inspector, state at large, spent several days this week in Everglades communities in a personal inspection.

Mr. Davis, who was accompanied here by his daughter, Miss Selma Davis, said that his department was working on a basis of "Love and Service" and that although inspectors did not want to have a hardship on anyone, he advised purchase of tags by those who did not have them or storage of their cars until they could buy tags.

WORKING THE EVERGLADES

Before the bar of morality, of use, of patriotism, of citizen love, Florida, can indict the federal government for wrongs as heinous as those which the Colists recited in the Declaration of Independence. To wit: It has, through iniquitous tariffs and trade pacts and local intrigues, surrendered American rights to foreigners. When American labor and industry had built up a great pineapple growth in this State, that the market was taken from Florida growers and turned over to cheap labor and to alien interests. When American labor and industry had built up a great pineapple growth in this State, that the market was taken from Florida growers and turned over to cheap labor and to alien interests. When American labor and industry had built up a great pineapple growth in this State, that the market was taken from Florida growers and turned over to cheap labor and to alien interests.

wherever sell them in a way to make their own living. And in addition, we have been paying the sugar company for not producing sugar. Then insofar as we houghed sugar development behind and afflicted it before, we have prevented employment of many thousands of our own people; we have prevented expansion of an industry the product of which we buy elsewhere to the extent of 75 per cent of our needs; we have placed our American refineries in disrepute and encouraged employment in Cuba and elsewhere. With one hand we dole out relief, with the other we prevent the natural course of relief—expansion of American industry and consequent greater employment.

Reverse such a policy and what would happen? Clarence R. Bittling, president of the United States Sugar Corporation, operating in this Florida sugar acreage, answers:

If Florida be permitted to expand its sugar industry, along conservative lines, free of restrictions, without taxes on such a vital food necessity, and without bounties, benefit payments or other gratuities from the Federal treasury, it will mean an annual capital expenditure of about $10,000,000; it will mean an increase in annual payroll of approximately $2,500,000, so that at the end of ten years the raw sugar industry of the Everglades will have an annual payroll of about $25,000,000, and that won't be all.

Sugar refineries will mean more capital and more pay rolls; the chemical and other industries that will use sugar and its by-products will mean more capital and more pay rolls; the development of the area on such a scale will mean the production of other crops which means more capital and more pay rolls; the stores, shops, service this great army of self-supporting workers will mean still more pay rolls.

Here, then, is a goal toward which the sugar industry is working, benefiting not only to the people of this State but to the people of the United States.

A payroll of $25,000,000 around Lake Okechobee would permeate into every district of the State. Incidental pay rolls, based on the program of expansion, and deriving from refineries and other allied industries, the local market, broadening agricultural yields, the additional building of homes, roads and the satisfying of the common needs of the thousands of additional employees necessary in an unrestricted and untroubled sugar expansion—all this would mean many times more than that of the estimated direct payroll of $10,000,000 at the end of the decade.

Surely here is a place and a time when everybody should take off his coat, roll up his sleeves, and do his best to blast out of government any policy that holds in check an industry of such glowing potentialities. Whatever the theory of the policy is, in practice it seems to be insane, senseless, and altogether foolish.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

"River Stay Away from My Door" seems to be the theme song of those who apprehensively watch the legislative waters at Tallahassee creep steadily toward the flood stage.

While there is no immediate danger of the House and Senate building their fortunes behind poorly constructed levees are becoming alarmed and today are frantically rushing workers to the danger areas in an effort to strengthen them.

The Mighty One has been on rampage for weeks and even old timers in the region hesitate to predict what the outcome will be. The House River is rising rapidly and it is freely predicted that waters this season will establish a new high. The old Senate continues to creep up toward new levels and many believe that when the House and Senate join and flow on into the Mighty One it will endanger the entire state.

While levees hastily constructed during the last flood still hold, frightened residents of Gumbo Valley fear that pressure from the rising tide of criticism will break through and they will be swept away. Panicly they are already advocating that authorities dynamite Gumbo Valley levees in order to protect the more thickly populated areas downstream.

General Glavin, in charge of operations in the Senate area, seems to have the situation well in hand along his front, but points out that there is need of more funds from some source if the work is to be continued and health and safety of the populace maintained. W. McEl. Christie, directing engineers along the House, while admitting the situation is critical, states that there is no immediate cause for alarm. It will be at least two weeks, he contends, before the crest will reach the danger stage.

Refugees have been pouring into Tallahassee the past week and it is reported that citizens have opened their homes in an effort to care for them. All hotels and rooming houses are filled and some have been forced to go to nearby towns for accommodations. Banana oil tanks broke their way out of the city.

Legislative Week Starts With 271 Bills Before House

Tallahassee, April 15.—(FNS)—Florida legislators pushed the Come economy program toward floor debate this week, after introducing bills to cover nearly every angle recommended by the chief executive in his opening-day address and completing efforts to amend the vast 60-day machinery.

The senate and house had a total of 271 bills before them as they returned to duties the first of the week, and the governor had before him the one general bill passed—no one to extend time for closing of tax books until July 1.

Without any apparent effort at coordination on the administrative program, senate and house members introduced bills following directly the Come outline. The governor, however, denied that he had any part in their presentation other than the part he took when he shouted his ringing challenge for economy in state government before the joint session of the two houses last week.

Senate and house committees had before them these bills, in line with Governor Come's recommendations:

$500 automobile license tags. Elimination of all continuing appropriations, with funds allocated for such appropriations diverted to the general revenue fund.

Consolidation of several state departments and duties. One bill would abolish the beverage department, tag department and racing commission, and put their duties under a state board of internal affairs made up of cabinet members. Another would put duties of the beverage department under the comptroller, abolishing the office of department director.

Reports of looking in the neighborhood of a fire started that caused for some weeks but no lives were lost. Stray cattle have been reported on roads leading to be stricken area and Chamber of Commerce officials are making an effort to round them up.

Many communities report that their financial resources are dangerously low and unless new taxes are thrown up something will have to be done. Schools are still open and authorities state that unless conditions get much worse than they are today they will not be closed.

General Hodge, who commanded engineers in the Senate area during the flood of two years ago, after a survey of the present situation, contends that permanent safety can come only through the establishment of a completely new flood control plan. New and stronger tax levies must be built and the old plans discarded, he claims.

An outbreak of Dengue Fever in Tampa caused the Governor to quarantine the entire city to avoid an epidemic, although local authorities say the situation is more severe than it has been and reject the restriction.

Many communities report that their financial resources are dangerously low and unless new taxes are thrown up something will have to be done. Schools are still open and authorities state that unless conditions get much worse than they are today they will not be closed.

General Hodge, who commanded engineers in the Senate area during the flood of two years ago, after a survey of the present situation, contends that permanent safety can come only through the establishment of a completely new flood control plan. New and stronger tax levies must be built and the old plans discarded, he claims.

An outbreak of Dengue Fever in Tampa caused the Governor to quarantine the entire city to avoid an epidemic, although local authorities say the situation is more severe than it has been and reject the restriction.

Legislative Week Starts With 271 Bills Before House

Tallahassee, April 15.—(FNS)—Florida legislators pushed the Come economy program toward floor debate this week, after introducing bills to cover nearly every angle recommended by the chief executive in his opening-day address and completing efforts to amend the vast 60-day machinery.

The senate and house had a total of 271 bills before them as they returned to duties the first of the week, and the governor had before him the one general bill passed—no one to extend time for closing of tax books until July 1.

Without any apparent effort at coordination on the administrative program, senate and house members introduced bills following directly the Come outline. The governor, however, denied that he had any part in their presentation other than the part he took when he shouted his ringing challenge for economy in state government before the joint session of the two houses last week.

Senate and house committees had before them these bills, in line with Governor Come's recommendations:

$500 automobile license tags. Elimination of all continuing appropriations, with funds allocated for such appropriations diverted to the general revenue fund.

Consolidation of several state departments and duties. One bill would abolish the beverage department, tag department and racing commission, and put their duties under a state board of internal affairs made up of cabinet members. Another would put duties of the beverage department under the comptroller, abolishing the office of department director.

NEW LIGHT

ON BEER

BEER of many brands is now being supplied to the public in cans instead of bottles. As a consequence a new light has dawned on those who like this kind of beverage. They have come to realize that beer is a handy body, and the new cans have contrived to the convenience of having it there because they can be stacked exactly like food cans and two of them occupy only about as much space in your refrigerator as one bottle of beer.

Beer is good as an ingredient in food as well as a beverage, and the can additional thing you need for the home convenience in serving these excellent brews is one or two good recipes for using it in cooking. Here are a couple.

Made with Beer
Barbitt Sandwich: Sauté two tablespoons minced onion in a few tablespoons cooking oil for a few minutes. Add two cups finely cut American cheese, one-half teaspoon mustard, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a few grains pepper. Then melt over low fire, adding slowly one-cup beer. Lay six slices toast on six slices toast, cover top with six slices crisply fried thin boiled ham. Makes six servings.

Beer Bouillabaisse: Cover a piece of boiling beef with as much canned beer as you would use of water, season to taste with salt and pepper and cook just as you would any bouillabaisse. Serve with toasted croutons.

MODERN MIXED VEGETABLES

PERHAPS you like to parboil in the kitchen preparing vegetables for cooking. Most people don't and there is a good reason why to avoid all this work. There is simply to use mixed vegetables in cans. Then all the work of preparation has been done for you much more thoroughly than you could do it, and you can go straight to your cooking. And what a variety of combinations you can make with these mixed vegetables in cans! Corn, cauliflower, jellies, stuffed peppers, even peas. These recipes prove it. Castle of Carrots: Rice and Vegetables: Sauté one minced onion in one-third cup butter until tender but not brown. Add one and a half cups of mixed vegetables, one teaspoon curry powder, one teaspoon colsey seed and one teaspoon salt and stir smooth. Add one cup boiling water and cook a few minutes longer. Pour over three cups hot cooked rice and toss lightly together until well mixed. Lay bottom and sides of a buttered casserole with the rice and fill center with the minced contents of a No. 2 can of mixed vegetables. Cover with rice, dot with two tablespoons butter and bake in a hot oven for about thirty minutes. Makes eight servings.

Cutlets and Jellies: Vegetable Cutlets: Make a thick white sauce of two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour and one cup milk and season highly with salt and pepper. Add well-drained contents of a No. 2 can of mixed vegetables, spread out on a buttered plate to cool and drain. Then take up heaping tablespoons of mixture and shape into cutlets (or croquettes, if desired). Roll in fine crumbs, then in eggs beaten egg, and again in crumbs. Set in refrigerator to get firm. Fry in deep fat—300 degrees until brown. Makes about twelve cutlets. Vegetables in Tomato Jelly: Soften two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup water and dissolve in two and a half cups boiling canned tomato juice. Add four tablespoons sugar, four tablespoons vinegar, four tablespoons banana pulp and one-half cup Cool and let thicken to consistency of honey. Add
